Methods of Instruction and Evaluation of Student Learning: In pursuit of the foregoing objectives, the course is based upon the reading and discussion of primary and secondary source materials by philosophers; liberal use of timely, germane handouts articles, news reports, and literature will be used to supplement the course’s main text. Several passages from primary sources, in translation, will be assigned and closely read together in class. The basic principles and methods of logical, ethical and other sorts of reasoning are introduced with a focus on assessing and developing sustained arguments; the techniques of scholarly research and writing are reviewed; and students are required to do a substantial amount of expository and critical writing. Student learning of relevant materials and methods will be assessed in two general areas: content knowledge and reasoning. A range of different assessments is employed to measure each of the five course objectives, particularly #5. The small group work will contribute to the student's ability and competence to work with others on ethical matters (e.g., ethics panels, ethics boards, etc.).

Citizenship: Course-long assessment of how students contributions to the class learning environment, that may include such factors as attendance (which will be in strict accordance with college policies), the amount and manner of class participation, helpfulness to other students' understanding, oral presentations (may be broken out as a separate grading category), etc.

Homework: 6 or more short assignments aimed at having the student demonstrate that they did the assigned reading assignment and can address the issues covered in their own words.

Quizzes: 2 or more brief assessments to allow students to demonstrate basic understanding of course content knowledge in a specific unit of instruction

Tests: 1 or more class-length assessments to allow students to demonstrate mastery of course content knowledge in covered units of instruction

Examinations: 1 or more class-length assessments to allow students to demonstrate content knowledge and philosophical reasoning as applied to units of instruction; includes one comprehensive final exam.

Essays: 1 or more assessments to allow students to demonstrate philosophical reasoning and content knowledge as applied to units of instruction. Well-argued papers are the first goal.
here, as a demonstration of reasoning informed by the ways and means of Eastern philosophy, though assigning and assessing in part a research dimension to the assignment is integral.

Course Grade Breakdown:

- Citizenship 10-15% (includes participation & presentations)
- Homework 10-15%
- Quizzes 5-10%
- Tests/Exams 30-50% (no one test/exam worth more than 20%)
- Essays 30-50% (no one paper worth more than 25%)
- Course = 100%

The particular grading breakdown is to be determined by each instructor and listed clearly in her/his syllabus.

Academic Integrity Statement: [As found @ http://mlink.mccc.edu/omb/OMB210.pdf]

MCCC ACADEMIC INTEGRITY POLICY OMB 210

Mercer County Community College is committed to Academic Integrity – the honest, fair and continuing pursuit of knowledge, free from fraud or deception. This implies that students are expected to be responsible for their own work, and that faculty and academic support services staff members will take reasonable precautions to prevent the opportunity for academic dishonesty. The college recognizes the following general categories of violations of Academic Integrity, with representative examples of each. Academic Integrity is violated whenever a student:

A. Uses or obtains unauthorized assistance in any academic work.
   - copying from another student’s exam.
   - using notes, books, electronic devices or other aids of any kind during an exam when prohibited.
   - stealing an exam or possessing a stolen copy of an exam.

B. Gives fraudulent assistance to another student.
   - completing a graded academic activity or taking an exam for someone else.
   - giving answers to or sharing answers with another student before, during or after an exam or other graded academic activity.
   - sharing answers during an exam by using a system of signals.

C. Knowingly represents the work of others as his/her own, or represents previously completed academic work as current.
   - submitting a paper or other academic work for credit which includes words, ideas, data or creative work of others without acknowledging the source.
   - using another author’s words without enclosing them in quotation marks, without paraphrasing them or without citing the source appropriately.
   - presenting another individual’s work as one’s own.
   - submitting the same paper or academic assignment to another class without the permission of the instructor.
   - falsifying bibliographic entries.
   - submitting any academic assignment which contains falsified or fabricated data or results.

D. Inappropriately or unethically uses technological means to gain academic advantage.
• inappropriately or unethically acquiring material via the Internet or by any other means.
• using any electronic or hidden devices for communication during an exam.

Each instructor and academic support service area is authorized to establish specific guidelines consistent with this policy.

Consequences for Violations of Academic Integrity
For a single violation, the faculty member will determine the course of action to be followed. This may include assigning a lower grade on the assignment, assigning a lower final course grade, failing the student in the course, or other penalty appropriate to the violation. In all cases, the instructor shall notify the Chair of the Academic Integrity Committee of the violation and the penalty imposed. When two (or more) violations of academic integrity are reported on a student, the Academic Integrity Committee (AIC) may impose disciplinary penalties beyond those imposed by the course instructors. The student shall have the right to a hearing before the AIC or a designated AIC subcommittee.

Appeals
The student has a right to appeal the decision of the instructor or the Academic Integrity Committee. Judicial procedures governing violations of Academic Integrity are contained in the Student Handbook.
