Evaluation of student learning: [Evaluates SLOs 1-8.]

Achievement of the course objectives will be evaluated by the following tools. The weighted percentage of these means of assessing student learning will vary slightly among different instructors, but the greatest emphasis should be on formal written work.

Attendance and participation (10%). Students are expected to come to class having read the material and prepared to discuss it. Students will also participate in informal small group work, opportunities for discussion leading, and peer review of essay drafts. At the end of the semester, students will form groups to present a Shakespearian play or sonnet.

Midterm and final exams (20%). Exams given on key thematic and literary concepts related to Shakespeare and Elizabethan drama. These tests are completed in class and may include identifications as well as short essay responses to questions that challenge students to apply literary terms.

Formal Written Work (70%). Students will submit three formal essays (each 5-6 pages, minimum). All formal essays require not only a critical engagement with the literary works read in class but also library research to bring depth and validity to the projects. Formal essays should demonstrate careful, text-based close reading, use of an appropriate critical lens, location of each Shakespearian play or sonnet within their social context, analysis of the characters in a variety of socially-defined categories, and integration of scholarly sources.
