Department Videos Kick-off for Fall!

The Marketing & Publications group is creating a series of videos about individual departments. The goal is to highlight all departments, the staff who work in them (and keep everything running!), and to help us get to know each other through a shared understanding of the work that happens in each department.

Please join in the fun by sharing with us a good week to have our amazing video and photo content creators visit your department. We'll work with each department to arrange a time that works for you. Send email to communications@mccc.edu to let us know when we can highlight your department! We will share the videos in upcoming employee newsletters.
